 - ◇ Ergovore: These pokémon can consume electricity to gain energy;
 - ◇ Some pokémon doesn’t have anything in this field — that means that this pokémon doesn’t need to eat anything to live.

- Rarity: How common is it to encounter that pokémon in their habitat. It doesn't take into account how rare is this pokémon habitat;
- Gender Ratio: How likely it's to encounter a female or male pokémon of that species. Some pokémon doesn't have any information on this field, this mean that this pokémon species is genderless;
- Egg group: What egg group this pokémon is part of — that means with what pokémon can it reproduce with;
- Egg hatch time: How long it takes an egg of this species to hatch. A cycle equals 2 Complete Time Blocks.

6. What size your pokémon have and how heavy it is. These information are the following:

- Size:
 - ◇ Tiny: Any size of 0.3m or below. These pokémon can pass through Medium or above pokémon without any penalty. They can also pass through Large or above pokémon of the opponent team without any penalty as well. They also roll 2 additional dice to avoid moves with Speed, however, lose 2 maximum Stamina every level divisible by 2.
 - ◇ Small: Any size between 0.3m and 0.6m. These pokémon can pass through Large or above pokémon without any penalty. They can also pass through Huge or above pokémon of the opponent team without any penalty as well. These pokémon roll 1 additional die to avoid moves with Speed, however, lose 1 maximum Stamina every level divisible by 2.
 - ◇ Medium: Any size between 0.7m and 1.2m. These pokémon can pass through Huge or above pokémon without any penalty. They can also pass through Gigantic or above pokémon of the opponent team without any penalty as well.
 - ◇ Large: Any size between 1.3m and 1.9m. These pokémon usually take up a space of 2x2m on the battlefield. These pokémon gain 1 additional Stamina per Level divisible by 2, however, roll 1 less dice to avoid moves with Speed.
 - ◇ Huge: Any size between 2m and 3m. These pokémon usually take up a space of 3x3m on the battlefield. These pokémon gain 2 additional maximum Stamina per Level divisible by 2, however, roll 2 less dice to avoid moves with Speed.
 - ◇ Gigantic: Any size above 3m. These pokémon usually take up a space of 4x4m or larger on the battlefield. These pokémon gain 3 additional maximum Stamina per Level divisible by 2, however, roll 3 less dice to avoid moves with Speed.

➤ Weight

- ◇ XS: Any weight below 10kg;
- ◇ S: Any weight between 10kg and 24kg;
- ◇ M: Any weight between 25kg and 49kg;
- ◇ L: Any weight between 50kg and 99kg;
- ◇ XL: Any weight between 100kg and 199kg;
- ◇ XXL: Any weight above 199kg.

7. The pokémon sub-archetype of that archetype. More information in X;

8. The pokémon's possible archetypes. More information in X;

9. The pokémon Natural coverage of that archetype — that says what moves it can learn with a tier up to their tier. More information in X;
- Some coverage may be a combination of a type and some letters in parenthesis. This means that the pokémon of that species and archetype can't learn any move of that type: it must be of one of the described categories, that being "Ph" for Physical, "St" for Status and "Sp" for Special. If the type doesn't have any parenthesis besides it, it means that this coverage gives access to all moves of that type.
10. The pokémon standard coverage of that archetype — that says what moves it can learn with at least a tier lower than itself. More information in X;
11. The pokémon Signature — that can be either a Move or a Trait.
- If it is a move, the following information are always present:
 - ◇ In the first line, there is the move's name with the category and type is in parenthesis, beside the name ("Ph" for Physical, "St" for Status and "Sp" for Special);
 - ◇ In the second line, there is Damage, for the Damage category, and CD, for Cooldown;
 - ◇ The third line says first the targeting and then the action required or the move's tags;
 - If there isn't an action listed, then it costs a Standard action;
 - If there isn't a tag listed, then the move doesn't have any tags;
 - ◇ Below the third line is the effect of the signature move;
 - Some Signature Moves and Traits have an effect after the descriptor "Underdog:". This effect is only activated once the pokémon of that species acquire the trait Underdog Potential.
 - Some effects, like the Concentrate Energy (technique), scales with the move's tier. For Signature moves, consider as the following:
 - ◇ Tier I for the 1st stage its evolution line;
 - ◇ Tier II for the 2nd stage of a 3-stages evolution line;
 - ◇ Tier III for the 2nd stage of a 2-stages evolution line or 1-stage evolution line;
 - ◇ Tier IV for the 3rd stage of its evolution line;
 - ◇ Tier V for legendaries and mythicals;
 - Underdog Potential and Lived Life traits also increase the pokémon's signature move considered tier;
 - Any additional trait acquired by your pokémon's signature trait is considered as if it were acquired prior to their tier I trait.
- Some Pokémon may have a textbox below its usual with the "Gimmick:" descriptor. This means that this pokémon has an additional, unique mechanic that changes that affects both archetypes.

Gimmick: Impenetrable Shell

Thanks to Shuckle's body type, their stats work differently than usual. "Stats raised via any effect" includes, but not exclusively: stats via level up, Signature Stat, stat stages, training stats, class features, feats, move's effects, trait's effects and held item's effects.

- You can choose which stat, between Defense and Special Defense, will be their Main Signature Stat and Secondary Signature Stat;
- Whenever they would have your Attack or Special Attack stat raised via any effect, they instead gain that same amount in Defense or Special Defense respectively;
- Whenever they would have your HP stat raised via any effect, they instead gain that same amount as Shell points;
- Whenever they would have your Speed stat raised via any effect, they instead gain that same amount as Juice points. These are recovered at the start of every battle. If their Speed is raised/lowered mid battle, they gain/lose that amount as Juice points instead;
- Whenever they are hit by a damaging move, after applied the damage reduction roll, reduce it additionally by a value equal to your Shell points. This effect can reduce the damage further, up to 15% of its base damage;
- As their Quick action, Shuckle can spend 2 Juice points to reduce the cooldown of 1 of their moves by 1.
